

COTOPAXI NATIONAL PARK

After breakfast, a local guide will pick up you at the hotel in order to hit the road to the South of the Andes cordillera. If the weather allows it, you will be able to spot the Cotopaxi volcano. This is a beautiful snow capped volcano, one of the highest active volcanoes in the world. The scenery is beautiful, and during Humboldt's scientific visits he called it the "Avenue of the Volcanoes."

You will visit the Cotopaxi National Park and walk around the Limpiopungo lagoon.

If conditions allow it, climb to the Jose F. Rivas refuge, located at 4,800 meters. It is a 45 minute-hike from the parking lot.

Enjoy lunch at a local Hacienda.

Afternoon at leisure at the hacienda and return back to Quito.
